Project abstract:

Understanding contemporary immigration to Global North countries necessitates a critical examination of colonialism and its legacies, a dimension often overlooked by political philosophers in the ethics of migration. This project addresses this gap by investigating how colonial legacies impact philosophical thinking about the state's moral prerogative to restrict immigration, i.e., the right to exclude. This issue is crucial to the academic migration debate in normative political philosophy but appears also of pressing societal interest today. This project will advance the field by developing a normative theory assessing the colonial legacies of the right to exclude in the Global North migration context. It will do so by reconsidering whether and to what extent Global North states are entitled to exclude immigrants as well as reassessing which exclusions should be considered normatively significant in the ongoing debate. The project's central hypothesis reads that the colonial legacies of the right to exclude call for redress. Its objectives are threefold: (1) theorise colonial legacies as an enduring injustice in migration, (2) assess how colonial paradigms in nation-state concepts affect legitimate exclusion, and (3) examine colonial legacies as central to how and which borders are relevant to the right to exclude.

List and describe all datasets or research materials that you plan to generate/collect or reuse during your research project. For each dataset or data type (observational, experimental etc.), provide a short name & description (sufficient for yourself to know what data it is about), indicate whether the data are newly generated/collected or reused, digital or physical, also indicate the type of the data (the kind of content), its technical format (file extension), and an estimate of the upper limit of the volume of the data.

If you reuse existing data, please specify the source, preferably by using a persistent identifier (e.g. DOI, Handle, URL etc.) per dataset or data type:

Sources of 'Literature' cited in the description of data types.

Are there any ethical issues concerning the creation and/or use of the data (e.g. experiments on humans or animals, dual use)? Describe these issues in the comment section. Please refer to specific datasets or data types when appropriate.

- No

Will you process personal data? If so, briefly describe the kind of personal data you will use in the comment section. Please refer to specific datasets or data types when appropriate.

- No

Does your work have potential for commercial valorization (e.g. tech transfer, for example spin-offs, commercial exploitation, ...)? If so, please comment per dataset or data type where appropriate.

- No

Do existing 3rd party agreements restrict exploitation or dissemination of the data you (re)use (e.g. Material/Data transfer agreements/ research collaboration agreements)? If so, please explain in the comment section to what data they relate and what restrictions are in place.

- No

Are there any other legal issues, such as intellectual property rights and ownership, to be managed related to the data you (re)use? If so, please explain in the comment section to what data they relate and which restrictions will be asserted.

- No

2. Documentation and Metadata

Clearly describe what approach will be followed to capture the accompanying information necessary to keep data understandable and usable, for yourself and others, now and in the future (e.g., in terms of documentation levels and types required, procedures used, Electronic Lab Notebooks, README.txt files, Codebook.tsv etc. where this information is recorded).

Note-taking will be accompanied by reference to precise book, edition, and page number where authors are cited.

Will a metadata standard be used to make it easier to find and reuse the data? If so, please specify (where appropriate per dataset or data type) which metadata standard will be used. If not, please specify (where appropriate per dataset or data type) which metadata will be created to make the data easier to find and reuse.

- Yes

Standard referencing such as Chicago Manual of Style will be used across notes and published work.

3. Data storage & back-up during the research project

Where will the data be stored?

OneDrive (KU Leuven)

How will the data be backed up?

- Standard back-up provided by KU Leuven ICTS for my storage solution
- Back-ups I make in my personal cloud (OneDrive).
